A STATEMENT ON THE LAW SCHOOL ADMISSIONS TEST

Given the tremendous number of applications an admissions committee such as your own must review to select a relatively few entering students, I can understand the tendency to rely upon a universal measuring device such as the LSAT in screening applicants. A committee member, faced with several dozen files to evaluate in a limited period of time, may feel that, realistically, the LSAT score provides the only means of managing the load expeditiously. Despite these considerations, however, I feel obliged to offer in my own behalf the request that my entire application file be given equal consideration, if at all possible.

I do not believe this is the time to be timid, and I shall not be. I have planned too long for a career in law to allow the fear vanity or a poor performance on the LSAT prevent me from making every effort to plead my case for admission to law school. Therefore, I will say to you now, with the greatest confidence, that the file you have before you is not just the file of a "qualified student", but the file of an individual who is obstinate enough to want to become a critical and tireless student and practitioner of the law, and qualified enough to succeed. My grades these past two years, my recommendations, and my personal statement speak of Ted Bundy the student, the worker, and researcher in pursuit of a legal education; the LSAT does not and cannot reveal this.

Sincerely,

Theodore R. Bundy

Re: Letter of recommendation for Theodore R. Bundy

Dear Sirs:

It has been my pleasure to know Ted Bundy for over a year now as a student in three of my courses, as an advisee and as a personal friend. I know him well enough to make a comprehensive evaluation of his attributes. His performance in all of my classes (one a large lecture course of 300 students, one an honors seminar with 20 members, the other an advanced seminar with 10 students) was superior. He consistently achieved one of the highest scores on all tests, papers and discussion performances. He is an extremely diligent, hard-working student who has always impressed me with his degree of preparation and enthusiasm for learning. At times he even pursued self-initiated research into areas of interest to him which went well beyond the required readings and assignments. He gets involved. Furthermore, he is one of the most articulate undergraduates I have known and has verbal skills which exceed those of most of our graduate students. His questions and answers are always germane to the discussion topic and his interest in learning has a way of exciting others around him in conversations. It is clear that other students use him as a standard to emulate. Similarly his more recent academic record is outstanding and demonstrates a high level of intellectual capabilities. As you know, during his first year and a half of college his grades were mediocre. This reflected more his lack of commitment and uncertainty about his area of studies than his abilities. Since returning from his subsequent period of political and government activities, he has established his true goals of studying human behavior and pursuing a career in law. I know he is sincere and has no ambivalence in this pursuit and his grades since returning to college are further evidence of this dedication. Thus, there is no question about his ability to learn and achieve academically.

It should also be noted that he is not just an academic grind. While being successful in his courses he is actively involved in numerous outside projects. He has begun an exciting investigation of the dynamics of jury trial procedures for his honors thesis which promises to be a significant contribution to our understanding of this aspect of the judicial system. At the same time he is participating as a member of the Crisis Clinic staff which aids individuals in distress. Another of his activities is being one of the prime movers in a local pilot project to tap the strength of various presidential candidates among young voters. And, as if this were not enough, he is an integral member of a student-faculty curriculum committee which is currently assessing the department's undergraduate research program. His involvement here, as in the others listed, is well beyond mere presence at meetings. He, in large part, designed and carried out the entire assessment phase of this committee's investigation. Without a doubt, one can have nothing but admiration for his energy and use of skills in all these extra activities. I am awed!

His personal characteristics are all of the highest standards. Ted is a mature, young man who is very responsible and emotionally stable (but not emotionally flat as many students appear--he does get excited or upset appropriately in various situations). He has an excellent sense of humor and in general is a great individual to know as a personal acquaintance. He seems to have many friends and from my knowledge, he can take charge of a project in an unassuming fashion as well as work smoothly under the direction of others. I am at a loss to delineate any real weaknesses he has. Only two points come to mind concerning possible drawbacks. One is his tendency, though infrequent, to be too serious about some matters which appear to me not to be that crucial. The second is that he is not pursuing a career in psychology as I believe he would become a great colleague.

In summary, this is an exceptional individual. He is bright, articulate and active to the extent that I would rate him in the top 1% of college seniors I have known. He has the capabilities, background and self-sustaining motivation to complete any law or doctorate degree program requirements with flying colors. I recommend most highly, without any reservations, that you accept him in your program.

Sincerely,

Scott C. Fraser

Seattle, Washington 98105

Dear Mr. Bundy:

We regret having to advise you that it will not be possible to accept your application for admission to the School of Law.

Each year we have the difficult task of determining admissions. That determination is based, among other things, on undergraduate grade point averages and LSAT scores. Because the number of applications we receive is so great and the number we can admit is so limited, we have to deny admission to many qualified applicants. Unfortunately, your application was among those so denied.

You may be sure that we appreciate the interest evidenced in this School of Law by your application and that you have our earnest good wishes for your continued career.

Sincerely,

Robert S. Hunt
Associate Dean and
Professor of Law

Why Law ?

I apply to law school because my professional and community activities demand daily a knowledge of the law I do not have. Whether I am studying the behavior of criminal offenders, examining bills before the legislature, advocating court reform, or contemplating the creation of my own corporation, I immediately become conscious of my limited understanding of the law. My life style requires that I obtain a knowledge of the law and the ability to practice legal skills. I intend to be my own man. It's that simple.

I could go on at great length to explain that the practice of law is a life-long goal, or that I do not have great expectations that a law degree is a guaranty of wealth and prestige. The important factor, however, is that law fulfills a functional need which my daily routine has forced me to recognize.

I apply to law school because this institution will give me the tools to become a more effective actor in the social role I have defined for myself.

Gentlemen:

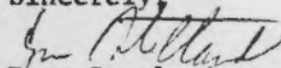

I am writing in support of Theodore R. Bundy's application for your law school. It is indeed a pleasure to do this because I have developed enormous respect for Mr. Bundy over the years of our acquaintance. I first met him when we were in separate but cooperating political groups. He was most effective as the leader of the other group, welding the members together by his intelligence, perceptiveness of others' needs, his respect for them, his organizing ability and his steady dedication. It was obvious that he was a young man of enormous potential.

For several years, after our political efforts, I had chance encounters with Mr. Bundy, one of them being when, as a professor of Psychology, I was a member of the Psychology Department's undergraduate curriculum committee. He was one of the elected student representatives to the committee, and again showed the same leadership qualities and sophistication which I had seen earlier.

More recently, I worked with him as a member of the Seattle Citizen's Advisory Crime Prevention Commission, of which he became a staff member. He quickly showed the same independence and initiative, developing a project on his own having to do with white collar crime. He surveyed the community resources in the area and made an excellent presentation to the commission which deeply impressed all the commissioners. I later heard that the people in the community whom he had contacted were also impressed and one called me to see if he was available for an excellent position.

There can be no doubt that Mr. Bundy is one of the outstanding young men in our state -- highly intelligent, completely honest, possessed of great leadership qualities and abilities to communicate very effectively with others. He will make a great lawyer.

Sincerely,

Dear Dean Hunt:

I hope that it doesn't seem inappropriate for an engineer to recommend the admission of an applicant to your law school. I am not the least bit uncomfortable in this role, though. Public life has placed me in working contact with a great number of law students and attorneys. For this reason, I feel that I can recommend Theodore Bundy to your law school and predict that he will be as fine a law student as has ever studied there.

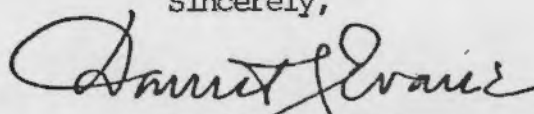

I first met Ted after he had been selected to join my campaign staff in 1972. It was the consensus among those of us who directed the operation that Ted's performance was outstanding. Given a key role in the issues, research, and strategy section, he demonstrated an ability to define and organize his own projects, to effectively synthesize and clearly communicate factual information, and to tolerate uncertain and sometimes critical situations. In the end, it was probably his composure and discretion that allowed him to successfully carry out his assignments. These qualities made his contributions to strategy and policy dependable and productive.

If, however, you are concerned that a political campaign is not a measure of a prospective law student, then I am sure you will look, as I have, at Ted's other achievements and activities. Look at his academic record in his last two years of college; look at his impressive community involvements; and look at the several law-related positions he has held since graduation. I believe he is qualified to and intent upon pursuing a career in law.

Ted has often spoken of his background in Chinese, and has commented on the unique position occupied by the Northwest with respect to Mainland China. It is not surprising, then, that he should be interested in your Asian law program. Whether he decides on Asian law, criminal law, corporate law or some other area of concentration, I hope that a person with his talents will not have to travel to another area of the country to study and practice law.

I strongly recommend the admission of Ted Bundy to your law school. You would be accepting an exceptional student.

Sincerely,

Daniel J. Evans

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Re: Letter of recommendation for Theodore R. Bundy

Dear Sirs:

It has been my pleasure to know Ted Bundy for over a year now as a student in three of my courses, as an advisee and as a personal friend. I know him well enough to make a comprehensive evaluation of his attributes. His performance in all of my classes (one a large lecture course of 300 students, one an honors seminar with 20 members, the other an advanced seminar with 10 students) was superior. He consistently achieved one of the highest scores on all tests, papers and discussion performances. He is an extremely diligent, hard-working student who has always impressed me with his degree of preparation and enthusiasm for learning. At times he even pursued self-initiated research into areas of interest to him which went well beyond the required readings and assignments. He gets involved. Furthermore, he is one of the most articulate undergraduates I have known and has verbal skills which exceed those of most of our graduate students. His questions and answers are always germane to the discussion topic and his interest in learning has a way of exciting others around him in conversations. It is clear that other students use him as a standard to emulate. Similarly his more recent academic record is outstanding and demonstrates a high level of intellectual capabilities. As you know, during his first year and a half of college his grades were mediocre. This reflected more his lack of commitment and uncertainty about his area of studies than his abilities. Since returning from his subsequent period of political and government activities, he has established his true goals of studying human behavior and pursuing a career in law. I know he is sincere and has no ambivalence in this pursuit and his grades since returning to college are further evidence of this dedication. Thus, there is no question about his ability to learn and achieve academically.

It should also be noted that he is not just an academic grind. While being successful in his courses he is actively involved in numerous outside projects. He has begun an exciting investigation of the dynamics of jury trial procedures for his honors thesis which promises to be a significant contribution to our understanding of this aspect of the judicial system. At the same time he is participating as a member of the Crisis Clinic staff which aids individuals in distress. Another of his activities is being one of the prime movers in a local pilot project to tap the strength of various presidential candidates among young voters. And, as if this were not enough, he is an integral member of a student-faculty curriculum committee which is currently assessing the department's undergraduate research program. His involvement here, as in the others listed, is well beyond mere presence at meetings. He, in large part, designed and carried out the entire assessment phase of this committee's investigation. Without a doubt, one can have nothing but admiration for his energy and use of skills in all these extra activities. I am awed!

25 February 1972

His personal characteristics are all of the highest standards. Ted is a mature, young man who is very responsible and emotionally stable (but not emotionally flat as many students appear--he does get excited or upset appropriately in various situations). He has an excellent sense of humor and in general is a great individual to know as a personal acquaintance. He seems to have many friends and from my knowledge, he can take charge of a project in an unassuming fashion as well as work smoothly under the direction of others. I am at a loss to delineate any real weaknesses he has. Only two points come to mind concerning possible drawbacks. One is his tendency, though infrequent, to be too serious about some matters which appear to me not to be that crucial. The second is that he is not pursuing a career in psychology as I believe he would become a great colleague.

In summary, this is an exceptional individual. He is bright, articulate and active to the extent that I would rate him in the top 1% of college seniors I have known. He has the capabilities, background and self-sustaining motivation to complete any law or doctorate degree program requirements with flying colors. I recommend most highly, without any reservations, that you accept him in your program.

Sincerely,

Re: Theodore R. Bundy

To Whom It May Concern:

Mr. Theodore Bundy has asked me to write a letter of recommendation in support of his application for admission to your law school and I am very happy to do so. I feel I know Mr. Bundy quite well, having had him as a student and having worked with him on a research project. Mr. Bundy is undoubtedly one of the top undergraduate students in our department. Indeed, I would place him in the top 1% of undergraduate students with whom I have interacted both here at the University of Washington and at Purdue University. He is exceedingly bright, personable, highly motivated, and conscientious. He conducts himself more like a young professional than like a student. He has shown the capacity for hard work and because of his intellectual curiosity is a pleasure to interact with.

I am confident that Mr. Bundy will be a top-notch law student. In addition, he will be in a position by virtue of his undergraduate training and interests to make some rather unique contributions to the law profession. As a result of his undergraduate psychology major, Mr. Bundy has become intensely interested in studying psychological variables which influence jury decisions. He and I are currently engaged in a research project in which we are attempting to study experimentally some of the variables which influence jury decisions. Mr. Bundy has taken a good deal of responsibility for the project and has spent a great deal of time researching the literature on jury behaviors. He wishes to continue these studies when he enters law school and I feel that if he is given the opportunity to implement some of his ideas, his research will have a real impact on the field of law.

I must admit that I regret Mr. Bundy's decision to pursue a career in law rather than to continue his professional training in psychology. Our loss is your gain. I have no doubt that Mr. Bundy will distinguish himself as a law student and as a professional and I recommend him to you without qualification.

To whom it may concern:

I am happy to recommend Theodore R. Bundy for law school. I have been Ted's academic advisor for two years. In addition I know him through his very active involvement as a student member of the Departmental Undergraduate Curriculum Committee. He is currently surveying faculty members and students as to the effects of our Psychology 499, Undergraduate Research program, on participants. He carefully wrote the items and put together the questionnaire entirely independently---a very good job.

Ted apparently has had some bad quarters, back before I knew him. Presently, however, he is a well-functioning distinction student doing an honors thesis. Psychology as a profession he feels is too narrow for him and he always wanted to go to law school, feeling this discipline the right arena for solving social problems, applying his psychology background and research methodology, and giving his broad interests a chance for full expression. He is personable, cooperative, full of enthusiasm and idealism. I judge he will be a success in law school.

INTERPRETATION OF SCORES

Each score is reported on a standard scale which permits direct comparison of scores achieved by candidates tested at different times. The LSAT scale ranges from 200 to 800. Scores above 750 or below 250 are rare. The scale for the measure of writing ability ranges from 20 to 80. Scores above 75 or below 25 are rare.

The actual numerical values of a candidate's scores have meaning only when compared with scores made by other candidates. Such comparisons can be made by referring to the tables at the right which show the percent of the candidates taking a test in the designated period whose scores fell below those given.

Law schools set their own standards for selecting their entering classes and each school places somewhat different emphases on test scores used in conjunction with college records, honors or awards, recommendations, interviews, and other information. It is strongly urged that these tables not be used as a means of deciding whether to send scores to a particular law school.

Dear Admissions Committee:

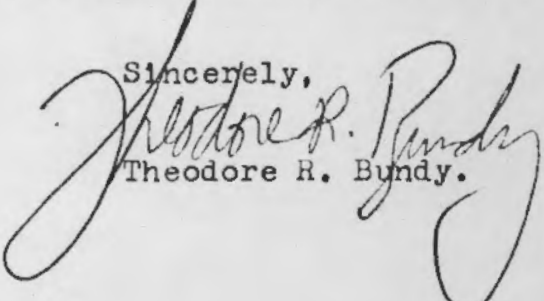

I recently requested that an official transcript of my record at the University of Washington be forwarded to you. Appearing on the back of the transcript is a report of grades for Winter Quarter 1972. This grading period was not included in the LSDAS transcript analysis of February 2, 1972.

Upon my return to the University of Washington in June, 1970, after a 2½-year-absence, I began a new and very productive phase of my college education. It is this fact which the transcript you have before you emphasizes most strongly. To illustrate the substantial progress I have made during the period from June, 1970 to March, 1972, a brief summary of my academic performance is presented below:

	G.P.A. (4.0 scale)
1. Junior year	3.76
2. Senior year (including Winter '72)	3.83
3. Major area (all psychology courses)	3.93
4. Winter Quarter 1972	4.0

I would like to continue this established and accelerating trend of scholastic achievement as a student in the University of Washington School of Law.

Sincerely,

Theodore R. Bundy.

Dear Mr. Bundy:

The first-year class at the University of Washington School of Law for the fall of 1972 has been largely selected. Those who have been admitted have been so informed, as have those who have been denied admission.

We have decided to place your name on a waiting list, if you are interested. The list will contain the names of some 100 individuals who would be eligible for admission, should some of those admitted be unable to come.

It is impossible to predict how many of these 100, if any, will be admitted on this basis. Decisions will be made from time to time throughout the summer. Accordingly, even if you decide to be included on this waiting list, you should continue to perfect any other admissions opportunities you have.

Would you indicate on the enclosed card whether you wish your name to be included on the waiting list. Thank you.

WOULD YOU PLEASE PLACE THIS STATEMENT
AT THE BEGINNING OF MY FILE.

THANK YOU.

A STATEMENT ON THE LAW SCHOOL ADMISSIONS TEST

Given the tremendous number of applications an admissions committee such as your own must review to select a relatively few entering students, I can understand the tendency to rely upon a universal measuring device such as the LSAT in screening applicants. A committee member, faced with several dozen files to evaluate in a limited period of time, may feel that, realistically, the LSAT score provides the only means of managing the load expeditiously. Despite these considerations, however, I feel obliged to offer in my own behalf the request that my entire application file be given equal consideration, if at all possible.

I do not believe this is the time to be timid, and I shall not be. I have planned too long for a career in law to allow the fear vanity or a poor performance on the LSAT prevent me from making every effort to plead my case for admission to law school. Therefore, I will say to you now, with the greatest confidence, that the file you have before you is not just the file of a "qualified student", but the file of an individual who is obstinate enough to want to become a critical and tireless student and practitioner of the law, and qualified enough to succeed. My grades these past two years, my recommendations, and my personal statement speak of Ted Bundy the student, the worker, and researcher in pursuit of a legal education; the LSAT does not and cannot reveal this.

Sincerely,
Theodore R. Bundy

SUPPLEMENT TO THE LAW SCHOOL APPLICATION:

A PERSONAL STATEMENT BY

THEODORE R. BUNDY

I would like to take this opportunity to call attention to information pertinent to your evaluation of my qualifications for a program of legal studies:

1. A Legal Education: Interests and Goals.
2. Current Activities.
3. An Interruption in College Education.

1. A Legal Education: Interests and Goals

You begin with the relations between might and right, and this is the assuredly proper starting point for our inquiry. But, for the term "might", I would substitute a tougher and more telling word: "violence". In right and violence we have today an obvious antimony.

Sigmund Freud
Why War?

To counsel a client; to arbitrate questions between individuals and Institutions; to search for the facts; and ultimately, to provide for the orderly resolution of conflict and the avoidance of "violence"--these activities constitute the goals which have attracted me to a program of legal study. Encouraged, perhaps, by my behavioralist background, I see the legal profession engaged in a quest for order. This quest affects all peoples and all places as people forever maneuver and experiment to establish and to disestablish political communities and organizations. As new values and ways of behaving and relating to the environment and to other people replace old values and behavior, men must, if they are to persist as a community, write new laws more consistent with the new boundaries of common problems.

Following the theme of a quest for order, I shall examine several issues, toward the resolution of which I intend to make contributions both as a student and as a practitioner of the law.

A. Order and the Economy

The workers have just gone through the ritual of rejecting the employers' "last offer", the Maritime Associations' contribution to the play acting.....May be a new dock emergency will be enough to make the law makers act.

Editorial
Wall Street Journal
December 23, 1971

Declining worker productivity and capital investment have produced an atmosphere of growing antagonism between labor and management. Strikes, injunctions and compulsory arbitration reflect what seem at times to be the irreconcilable interests of workers and owners. The call for legislation in the face of such disputes is likely to find greater acceptance among the American people and their representatives in government. The prospect of a trend toward greater legal constraints imposed on labor-management negotiations presents a challenge to me. I would like to participate in the shaping of new patterns of labor-management relations.

B. Order and the Environment

Perhaps the greatest potential for reversing environmental deterioration in the United States and bringing our population under control lies in the utilization of our legal system.

Paul and Ann Ehrlich,
Population, Resources, and Environment

Expand the nuisance doctrine? Permit class actions against polluters? Permit the recovery of punitive damages? These and other questions concerning the maintenance of a healthy environment demand to be answered by our legal system to which is entrusted not only the protection of the individual but, also, the protection of American industry, the principle source of strength and livelihood for this country. By the same token, legal prohibitions on reproduction will certainly be interpreted by many as an intrusion upon the sovereign rights of the individual. As an attorney, the provision and enforcement of legal antecedents to advanced environmental planning and population control in the 1970's and beyond would have a high priority for me.

C. Order, the Courthouse, and the Social Sciences

No program of crime prevention will be effective without a massive overhaul of the lower courts.

Report of the President's Committee on Law Enforcement and the Administration of Justice, 1968.

Modern social science research on vital problems and living institutions will always be confronted with large practical difficulties....It is important that the researcher into the problems of today be prudent, by being prepared to make some concessions to reality and some to ideal methodology.

Harry Kalven and Hans Zeisel,
The American Jury

The list of suggested reforms of our legal system increases daily: add more judicial manpower and change the selection and the tenure of judges; provide more prosecutors, defense counsel, and probation officers; make jury venires more representative of the entire community by adding minority and young persons; modernize the physical facilities and the administration of the courts; create unified state court systems; improve the informational basis for pretrial screening and negotiated pleas. Numerous, indeed, are the recommendations. However, the wholesale institution of these and other proposals, some argue, would disrupt our judicial system to the degree of dysfunction.

As a student in the social sciences I believe that the use of what Hans Zeisel calls "the tool chest of the social scientist" can reduce the resistance of those who rightly oppose changes in our system of justice. While recognizing the limitations mentioned by Kalven and Zeisel in the opening quotation, I will argue that the controlled experiment, in the hands of a sociologist or psychologist familiar with legal procedure, can provide a testing ground where old procedures are discarded or substantiated, and new ideas rejected or confirmed.

Currently, I am conducting the first in a series of studies concerning jury trials. In an article on jury research in America (Law and Society Review, 1970, vol. 4, pp. 345-370) Howard Erlanger concludes with the following questions: "What is the role of the jury in a system in which the overwhelming majority of criminal trials are dealt with by negotiate pleas? Does a different type of case come to trial? Do outcomes differ?" Using computer coded data collected on 11,000 felony cases by the Washington State Criminal Justice Evaluation Project, I am writing programs designed to isolate what I hope to be tentative answers to these and other questions regarding the management of felony cases. I hope to have the opportunity to continue this research as a law student.

A Personal Statement

D. Summary

Locating the new boundaries of common problems and adapting the law to deal with them should prove to be an exciting, but difficult task. In the meantime, the legal profession must continue to serve the immediate needs of our citizens. I wish to perform this service.

2. Current Activities

Listed in this section are those curricular and extracurricular activities to which I presently devote the majority of my time.

A. Honors Research and Thesis

Under the supervision of a faculty member, I have initiated two studies investigating the nature of the jury trial. Using data collected by the Washington State Criminal Justice Evaluation Project, I am utilizing computer based analyses to examine the types of cases and defendants that come to a jury trial. In addition, I have designed an experimental study of minority persons as jurors on simulated juries where racial composition of the jury and the race of the defendant are manipulated.

B. Psychology Undergraduate Curriculum Committee

As one of the three student members on this faculty-student committee, I have begun an evaluation of the Department's independent undergraduate research program.

C. Seattle Crisis Clinic

I am a clinical assistant employed on a part-time basis to do counseling by phone with individuals whose difficulties range from suicide to birth control. The clinic's primary responsibility is to serve as a point of immediate access for persons in crisis who need to talk to someone.

D. Ballot Projection Research Team (BPRT)

BPRT is an infant organization, composed primarily of students in the behavioral sciences, which has become affiliated with a major political party in Washington State. I have been given the responsibility for planning the pilot BPRT research program; the goal of which is the assessment of the strength of several presidential contenders in a target population of 18-25 year olds living in the Puget Sound region who have not attended college.

3. An Interruption in College Education

I left the University of Washington in January, 1968, without a degree, and returned to that same school in June, 1970. Because I believe my activities during this two and one-half years absence may arouse in you more than casual interest, I shall attempt here to chronicle the events which immediately preceded and which occurred during this intervening period.

The purpose of my transfer to the University of Washington in 1968 was participation in the Chinese language program offered by the Far East Department. A year of intensive study was rewarded with an invitation to attend the Chinese Language Summer Institute conducted at Stanford in 1967. It was at Stanford that I began to question the total commitment to the study of Chinese that was increasingly being demanded of me. In short, what began as a desire to effect a rapprochement with the people of Mainland China became subordinate to an increasing awareness of the need for the reconciliation of the American people with themselves. Three months after my return to the University of Washington it became evident that I would have to thoroughly re-align my own priorities before I could continue with my education.

April, 1968, to December, 1968 - Political campaigns were beginning to take form when I was appointed Seattle Chairman and Assistant State Chairman for New Majority for Rockefeller, a nationwide youth campaign organization created to support the Governor's presidential nomination bid. Rockefeller's defeat in Miami and my subsequent unemployment prompted an invitation to me to become the personal aid and driver for Arthur Fletcher (later to be appointed Assistant Undersecretary of Labor) during his unsuccessful campaign for Lieutenant Governor in Washington State.

January, 1969 to May, 1969 - Because of family ties in the Philadelphia area and my own interest in community development, I participated in a community survey and organization program for Philadelphia School Sub-district #4. The public schools in this predominately black community were responding to the establishment of community control in several New York City schools.

A Personal Statement

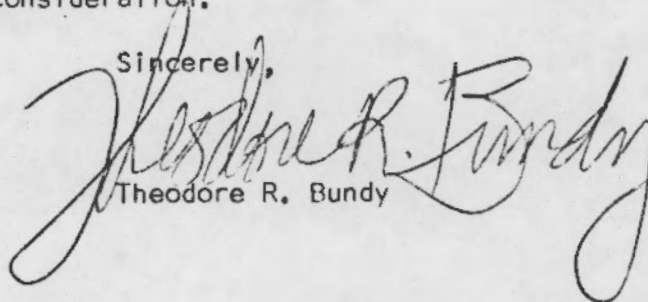

September, 1969, to May, 1970 - I was given instruction in the art of process serving and court filing as an under-paid employee of an attorneys' process service in Seattle.

Did these years spent outside the academic community have any lasting influence on my educational performance? Subjectively speaking, the answer is an unequivocal "yes". Let me, however, examine a more objective measure of this influence. Upon my departure from the University of Washington in 1968, my grade point average for the period from September, 1966, to January, 1968, was a 2.68. Since my return to Washington as a student in July of 1970, my GPA for the period between July, 1970, and December, 1971, is a 3.73. My GPA in Psychology is a 3.81.

My performance in this most recent phase of my educational career gives evidence, to the determination with which I have been pursuing my ultimate educational objective: admission to law school.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

A large, stylized handwritten signature in dark ink, which appears to read "Theodore R. Bundy". The signature is fluid and cursive, with the first name being particularly prominent.

Instructions for Preparing Individual Profiles

On each pupil's report sheet record his raw scores and their percentile equivalents.

To construct a graphic profile:

1. With a pen or colored pencil make a small dash on each vertical line at the point which corresponds to the percentile for that test.
2. For each test draw a bar from the 50th percentile line to the small dash indicating the student's percentile rank. When many profiles are to be drawn a felt-nibbed fountain pen such as the Type B "Brite-Line Marker" made by Cushman and Denison, Carlstadt, New Jersey, or the "Magic Marker" made by Speedry Products, Richmond Hill 18, N. Y. is convenient for making a broad line with a single stroke.
3. By using differently colored pencils or inks, the percentile profile based on different group norms can be plotted on the same chart. For example, one might wish to plot profiles of a twelfth-grade boy based on general norms for twelfth-grade boys and also on special norms of twelfth-grade boys in a college preparatory course. For further discussion of methods for plotting profiles, see Section 3 of the Differential Aptitude Test Manual.

The group on which the percentiles are based should be indicated below the words "Norms used." This is extremely important if the charts are to be referred to at some later date.

If the vertical distance between the levels of any two scores is one inch (equal to ten points in the Standard Score column) or greater, it is probable that a real difference exists between the two abilities. Differences between one-half inch and one inch are doubtful, and should not be given serious consideration unless supported by other evidence. If the vertical distance between any two scores is less than half an inch, it is probable that no important difference exists between the two abilities. (See Section 3 of the Manual.)

This chart has been prepared for use with tabulating machine equipment. Any school system which wishes to utilize IBM punch cards and desires information on the preparation of cards and wiring of boards may obtain this by writing to the Test Division of The Psychological Corporation.

Has made satisfactory progress in R. Can sing in clear tone tones - takes active part in all activities - a bit haughty

5-53

K.

K. Sacher

Teddy seems to be a trifle mischievous. He forgets sometimes to be courteous. Likes to play in a group & to play group games. Does not like to be disciplined for wrong doing.

5-54

R. Dwyer

Teddy has made very good progress in reading. Reading with group one. Reads slowly & slowly - left eye & hand banded. Understands what he reads and can look up information. Excellent in spelling, numbers, language. Printing legible. Tendency to start letters at bottom. Likes to do superior work. Capable but has a superiority attitude. Takes correction but sensitive to it. Does not like to be singled out for discipline. Rough in his play at times. Gets along well with classmates. Takes speech correction which he resented at first.

6/10/55

A. Geri

Teddy reads haltingly - comprehension good. Good number concepts. Shows interesting detail and originality in art. Nervous, noisy. Interrupts frequently.

6-56

Allard

Teddy does average work but has difficulty with reading and spelling. He still needs much work in word attack. His comprehension is good in reading. Very nervous and is very unsuited for action. He seeks attention in any way he can get it and often resorts to being silly.

6-57

Pagan

Teddy has some "babyish" actions that certainly he must overcome "Baby talk" at times. Remembers well what he reads in social studies and science. Was reading in group 3 but probably could go up to average group. Points. Not too well liked.

6/58

Deane

Ted had "stunts" of childish action. Very hard worker, very ambitious. Good athlete but a poor sport. Always tries hard.

Dear Ted:

This will confirm our conversation of April 9 at which time we discussed the choices open to you: 1) to continue your first year program, taking the examinations with the hope that your grades would be sufficiently high in three courses to offset the failure you will probably receive in Legislation, or 2) to withdraw in good standing and be readmitted to the Summer Evening Division program to begin over again.

Mrs. Doolittle tells me you have elected to follow the second alternative. I do hereby approve your request, then, to withdraw in good standing as of April 9 when your decision was given to Mrs. Doolittle, and to be readmitted into the Summer Evening Division. I understand you have submitted your $100 deposit to hold your place for that time and the receipt is attached.

Registration for the summer semester is May 13 and classes will begin the following day. We will send you a summer schedule as soon as it is available.

Re: Theodore R. Bundy

Dear Dean Sinclitico:

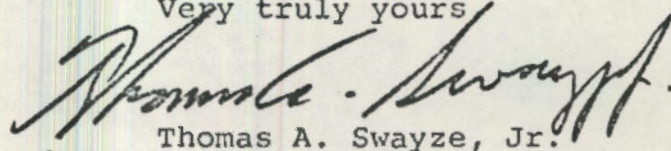

The abovenamed has applied for admission to the School of Law at the University of Puget Sound.

I have known Ted Bundy and his family for many, many years, since both his family and mine have long been active in the work of the First Methodist Church in Tacoma. I have watched Ted develop since his childhood.

My recommendation for him is as high as I can make it. He is simply an outstanding young man, combining the high ethical standards learned in a christian home, with excellent common sense, outstanding appearance and speaking ability, and an intense interest in government and civic affairs.

I can think of no combination of qualities that would better suit the type of person that we would both seek and welcome for the legal profession.

Very truly yours

Dear Dean Sinclitico:

I hope that it doesn't seem inappropriate for an engineer to recommend the admission of an applicant to your law school. I am not the least bit uncomfortable in this role, though. Public life has placed me in working contact with a great number of law students and attorneys. For this reason, I feel that I can recommend Theodore Bundy to your law school and predict that he will be as fine a law student as has ever studied there.

I first met Ted after he had been selected to join my campaign staff in 1972. It was the consensus among those of us who directed the operation that Ted's performance was outstanding. Given a key role in the issues, research, and strategy section, he demonstrated an ability to define and organize his own projects, to effectively synthesize and clearly communicate factual information, and to tolerate uncertain and sometimes critical situations. In the end, it was probably his composure and discretion that allowed him to successfully carry out his assignments. These qualities made his contributions to strategy and policy dependable and productive.

If, however, you are concerned that a political campaign is not a measure of a prospective law student, then I am sure you will look, as I have, at Ted's other achievements and activities. Look at his academic record in his last two years of college; look at his impressive community involvements; and look at the several law-related positions he had held since graduation. I believe he is qualified to and intent upon pursuing a career in law.

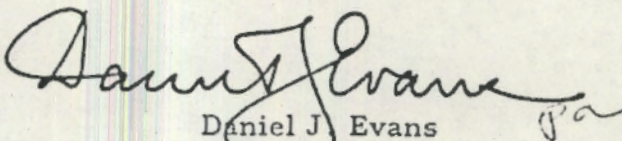

Dean Joseph Sinclitico
Page Two

Ted has often spoken of his background in Chinese, and has commented on the unique position occupied by the Northwest with respect to Mainland China. ~~It is not surprising,~~ then, that he should be interested in your Asian law program. Whether he decides on Asian law, criminal law, corporate law or some other area of concentration, I hope that a person with his talents will not have to travel to another area of the country to study and practice law.

I strongly recommend the admission of Ted Bundy to your law school. You would be accepting an exceptional student.

Sincerely,

Daniel J. Evans
Governor

ADMISSIONS MEMORANDA

Congratulations on your acceptance to the University of Utah College of Law!

Upon completion of your studies, if not already completed, you must submit an official current transcript (including degrees) of all your pre-legal studies from every college or university you have attended. 4143 - 12th Ave. N.E.
Seattle, Washington 98105

Dear Mr. Bundy:

We have completed evaluation of your credentials for admission. Admission into law school has become more competitive than ever before and unfortunately your qualifications for admission are below the competitive standards being applied for the current year. We must, regretfully, deny your application for admission. The standard which has been established is based upon careful studies of the relationship of pre-law academic achievement and the admission test performance to law school achievement and upon the competition among applicants for the limited number of positions in the entering class. This selection of but a few of the many applicants seeking admission means that by necessity many otherwise qualified persons are denied admission, especially in light of the unusually high quality of admission candidates. The median of the class entering in 1971 was almost a 3.45 grade-point average with a 640 LSAT and that median is almost certainly bound to be higher for 1972.

We recognize that strict adherence to high standards may result in some disappointments; however, experience has demonstrated that adherence to these standards contributes to the best interests of all concerned. In some cases applicants are able to improve their records and admission profiles by undertaking additional pre-legal course work and/or retaking the LSAT, if extenuating circumstances precluded a score indicative of one real abilities and the subsequent score reflects a significant improvement.

We appreciate your interest in attending the College of Law and wish you every success in your future endeavors.

Sincerely,

Ronn E. Harding
Assistant Dean

Dear Mrs. Knudson:

It is with extreme and sincere regret that I must inform you that for reasons of personal health and finance I will be unable to attend the University of Utah College of Law.

A recent auto accident has left me unable to travel. I fear that my physical condition could also limit my ability to study the first year course material. I had hoped I could recover in time to arrive by August the 31st.

If my failure to attend has caused you difficulty I am deeply sorry. It does concern me that the position offered to me might go unfilled because of the lateness of the hour. I hope it is not too late to find a deserving student to attend your fine law school in my place.

Sincerely,

Theodore Bundy

Dear Mr. Bundy:

We have completed the evaluation of your application for admission to the College of Law, and it is my pleasure to invite you to join this outstanding class which will be entering the College in September, 1973. We are proud of our reputation for excellence in legal education and feel that you will contribute to this tradition.

Upon completion of your pre-legal studies, if they are not already completed, but in no case later than June 30, 1973, (even if you will be attending summer term) you must submit an official, up-to-date transcript of all pre-legal studies and degrees from each and every college or university you have attended. This is in addition to any transcripts submitted to LSDAS. If you are attending a summer term, you must also submit an additional, official transcript as soon after completion of those courses as possible. The registrar of each institution must send transcripts directly to the Office of the Dean, College of Law, University of Utah, Salt Lake City, Utah 84112.

Due to the unprecedented number of applicants seeking admission, it is necessary for you to declare whether you intend to enroll in the College of Law in order to reserve your place in the entering class. A postal card is enclosed for your convenience and we anticipate your good faith communication of your intentions, especially should any change occur in your plans. We reserve the right to communicate your intention to enroll at Utah to other law schools and to receive similar information from them. We must have received your post card prior to May 1, 1973.

The first meeting of the entering class will be held on Friday, August 31, 1973. This orientation session will be followed by a full week of classwork in Introduction to Law. This program is mandatory of all entering students. Additional announcement of specific details will be made later.

May I again congratulate your selection for admission. We invite you to contact us if you have any questions.

Yours truly,

Ronn E. Harding

Dear Members of the Admissions Committee:

This letter is to serve as my personal statement regarding my application as a first-year student to the University of Utah College of Law.

First, it is necessary<sup>15</sup> that you understand why I was unable to attend in the Fall, 1973 after having been accepted to your College of Law. The decision was made with extreme reluctance and regret. Having been accepted as a first-year law student early in 1973 I was very excited and quickly returned my confirmation. Only the intervention of a very serious circumstance could have prevented my attendance.

Two weeks prior to the August 31st orientation session I was injured in an automobile accident. Still determined to attend Utah, I made every effort to accelerate my recovery both in and after leaving the hospital. The physical and financial complications persisted, finally forcing me to concede that I would not be in any condition to travel and study for several weeks after the beginning of Fall Semester, 1973. I notified Mrs. Karen Knudson of the situation.

This interruption in my future plans was a great disappointment to me. However, six months of working and being active again has served to confirm my desire to study the law. The initial depression one experiences when important plans must be abandoned has been overcome. I am extremely eager to begin pursuing my long-held objective to study law. It is also still my intention to study the law at the University of Utah. The excellence of your program of legal studies, the beauty of the campus and the State in general, the natural vitality of the people of Utah still attracts me. Of substantial influence in my decision to come to Utah has been my fiance who was born and raised in Ogden and attended college in Logan. She would very much like to return to the area and resume working with her father who is a physician in Ogden. In short, I feel I am prepared to enter law school as if there had never been any interruption at all.

Every day my interests draw me to issues that have significant legal implications. I want to obtain the tools to deal constructively with those issues at the University of Utah College of Law.

Sincerely,

Theodore R. Bundy

Assistant Dean
College of Law
University of Utah
Salt Lake City, Utah

Dear Dean Harding:

I have received your letter of April 3, 1972 in which you inform me that my admission profile has placed me in an "indecisive area" and that, as a consequence, you have not yet been able to come to a final decision in my case. I am particularly impressed by the courteous and thorough report of the status of my application for admission contained in this letter. Please allow me to acknowledge my appreciation for your prompt and thoughtful response to me.

In following your suggestion that I update my credentials I would like to take this opportunity to notify you that within the next six weeks you will receive two documents that may substantively affect the competitive standing of my application for admission:

1.) First, in an attempt to compensate for an unsatisfactory LSAT score received for my February 15th performance I have retaken this examination on its April 8th administration date. It is my understanding that six weeks must be allowed before the scores from this test date can be processed and sent to the schools I have designated.

2.) Winter Quarter at the University of Washington was recently concluded. I am pleased with my performance for this period as measured by the grades received for the course work completed. Presently, I am awaiting the addition of an incomplete grade to my official record, and immediately following its addition (within two weeks of your receipt of this letter) I shall have an official copy sent to you.

I hope you will find it possible to defer final action on my application for admission until the updated transcript and my second LSAT score have reached you.

Bundy

Several readings of your letter of April 3rd have left me with a couple questions regarding my application and admissions status. To facilitate your reply to these questions I have included a self-addressed post card on the back of which you will find several brief questions. I would appreciate your cooperation in responding to this abbreviated questionnaire.

In conclusion then, implicit in my efforts to update my file for the final admissions committee's evaluation is a strong and continuing interest in the program of legal studies offered by the University of Utah College of Law. I hope I will have the opportunity to participate in this program.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Theodore R. Bundy.

24. In order to be admitted to the practice of law, a person must be of good moral character. In many states, persons who have been convicted of crimes (other than minor traffic violations) may be denied permission to enter into the practice of law. In these instances, the successful completion of a course of legal studies and the receipt of a degree will in no way insure that a person with a record of criminal convictions will be permitted to practice law. Any applicant who has been convicted of a crime (other than minor traffic violations) is advised to consult with the Board of Bar Examiners and to examine the rules governing the admission of persons to the practice of law in the state in which that person intends to practice, before undertaking the study of law.

Theodore Robert Bundy
4143 12th Avenue, North East
Seattle, Washington 98105

Dear Mr. Bundy:

I regret to inform you that the Committee on Admissions has denied your application for admission to the University of Oregon School of Law.

This law school, like most others, is faced with an unprecedented increase in the number of applicants seeking a legal education. Based on current applications and the patterns of prior years, we expect to receive more than 2,000 applications for admission to the class entering in the fall of 1973. At the same time, enrollment restrictions and resource capabilities require us to limit to approximately 150 the number of positions which we can make available to persons selected from this large group of applicants. Because of this competition, and because only those persons displaying the highest level of prelegal credentials and the greatest potential for success in the study of law are accepted, the standards which a person must meet in order to be offered admission to the first year class have risen dramatically. It is the judgment of the Committee on Admissions that the qualifications which you have displayed in your application are not sufficiently high for you to be offered admission to the School of Law.

We appreciate your interest in this school and we are sorry that we were unable to offer you a position in the entering class.

Sincerely,

(Mrs.) Becky Anderson
Admissions Officer

Dear Admissions Officer:

I am making an inquiry regarding the status of my application for admission which I have filed with your law school. The purpose of this inquiry is to determine whether my application file, including the application form itself and all supporting material, is complete.

Accompanying this letter is a self-addressed post card on the back of which you may indicate whether or not my application file is complete. In the event that all material required to process and evaluate my application for admission has not been received by you I would appreciate it if you would specify just what items are absent.

I wish to make every effort to insure that the consideration of my application is not delayed due to any circumstance which may have prevented the delivery of all information required for the review of a candidate's credentials.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Theodore R. Bundy.

Dear Mr. Bundy:

I regret to inform you that the Committee on Admissions has denied your application for admission to the University of Oregon School of Law.

This law school, like most others, is faced with an unprecedented increase in the number of applicants seeking a legal education. Based on current applications and the patterns of prior years, we expect to receive more than 2,000 applications for admission to the class entering in the fall of 1972. At the same time, enrollment restrictions and resource capabilities require us to limit to approximately 150 the number of positions which we can make available to persons selected from this large group of applicants. Because of this competition, and because only those persons displaying the highest level of prelegal credentials and the greatest potential for success in the study of law are accepted, the standards which a person must meet in order to be offered admission to the first year class have risen dramatically. It is the judgment of the Committee on Admissions that the qualifications which you have displayed in your application are not sufficiently high for you to be offered admission to the School of Law.

We appreciate your interest in this school and we are sorry that we were unable to offer you a position in the entering class.

Sincerely,

George L. Dawson
Assistant Dean

8. The evaluator will notice upon examination of my college attendance history two periods, approximately one year each, during which I was not in attendance at any university. These interruptions represent neither illness, military service, or imprisonment. They are simply periods of self-evaluation highlighted by travel, political campaigning, and survival jobs.

The evaluator will also notice when studying my LSDAS Candidate Report that following my return to the University of Washington my GPA experienced a significant rise. The improvement in performance shown here represents the materialization, the formulation of concrete goals and objectives. One of those goals was and still is admission to law school.

11. The form requests an explanation as to why several law schools refused to accept me in 1972. I have been unable to determine precisely why. I would like to believe that they made a mistake. The fact is, however, that my LSAT score was probably the single most important factor contributing to my failure to be admitted.

It is still, after all, a contest of numbers. No one has found a better way to segregate the horde of applicants. Therefore, my potential to succeed in law school to the contrary, my goal of admission to law school has been delayed for one year.

I have prepared a background information sheet to provide information concerning my employment history after graduation and my reasons for wishing to attend law school. I hope you will have time to refer to this sheet. *

Mr. Theodore Robert Bundy
4143 Twelfth Avenue NE
Seattle, Washington 98105

Dear Mr. Bundy:

A final review of all applications which had been placed on the waiting list has now been completed, and we regret to inform you that it will not be possible to accept your application for admission to the College of Law.

Each year we are faced with the difficult task of determining admissions on the basis of probable success in the study of law. That determination is based on such factors as undergraduate grade point averages and Law School Admission Test scores. Because the demand for admission to the College of Law is so great, only those who rank in the top portion of the group of applicants can be admitted. Unfortunately, your application did not fall within that portion.

We appreciate the interest you have evidenced in applying to the Willamette University College of Law, and we carry with you our earnest good wishes for your continued career.

Very truly yours,

Carlton J. Snow
Assistant Dean
