His Wallet

A Bremerton man was good Samaritan - turned - victim Wednesday when he offered to help a Seattle man with an injured arm.
Robert Owen Chapman, 33, of Bremerton offered aid to a man with his arm in a sling on the Marion Street viaduct to the ferry terminal in Seattle.
The gesture cost him a wallet with $63 in cash, his wedding ring and wrist watch.
The supposedly-injured man responded to Chapman with a small automatic, and proceeded to take his possessions.

DETAILS OF COMPLAINT: The above ~~witness~~ came to the station wishing to pass on something that has been bothering him for a short while. This evening, a very short time ago, a man came into the Olympic and engaged himself in conversation with the complainant. He told Worth that he worked in the Navy Yard as a boilermaker on the Graveyard Shift. He had a tatoo on the upper left arm of a knight and spoke in a New York type accent. His hair was sandy and down just over the ears. He was wearing a Yard badge which verified the employment. Mr. Worth has been following the abductions very closely as he displayed an envelope with a great number of license numbers supposedly off Brown VWs that he has seen and also a picture from the Sun of the suspect composite. He went outside after this person left and observed a British Gray Volks parked near the gate, KVV- [REDACTED]. He does not know if this vehicle belongs to this person but feels that it is possible. A reg was sent on the license and came back as a 62 Volks 1200 to a [REDACTED] 3 [REDACTED] Trenton.
